EPS began providing manufacturing services in 1988. The manufacturing facility is located in Alpharetta, just thirty minutes north of Atlanta, GA. We have developed from a local manufacturer of small screws and rivets to a leading provider of semi-standard and special cold formed parts throughout North America. In conjunction with our cold heading capabilities, we also offer a wide variety of secondary services such as threading, knurling, shaving, drilling and tapping, plating, and head/shank slotting. We also offer many commercial finishes including high "salt spray" resistance for automotive applications. We offer warehousing for stocking JIT programs and, we are equipped for any rapid response that our customers require.
